Fiery protest Violence engulfs L.A.; mob outraged by King decision

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Scattered violence erupted following the acquittals of four white policemen in a black motorist's beating.

Looters ravaged stores, four motorists were beaten and demonstrators rushed police headquarters.

In the worst outbreak, an intersection in predominantly black South Central Los Angeles was plunged into chaos, with looters running free and motorists pulled from cars and attacked. Police and paramedics were ordered to steer clear.

Several small fires were seen burning in the area.

City officials, including Mayor Tom Bradley and Police Chief Daryl F. Gates as well as leaders of the black community appealed for calm.

In a scene that was captured by news helicopters and broadcast live, a truck driver was pulled from his tractor-trailer rig, beaten and clubbed with a tire iron as looters went through a nearby liquor store, gas station and auto parts store.

Men who beat the truck driver raised their hands and smiled.

The man's pockets were picked and he was kicked before he was able to stumble to his truck and drive away.

In another attack, about 25 people stood around as looters pulled a man from a vehicle at the intersection, beat and kicked him.

The man staggered about in the street, his head bloody, looking for help or a way out. After several minutes, two good Samaritans emerged, their hands raised for a halt to the violence. They led the man away.

A man in a white truck had his window smashed and was pulled out of the cab and beaten.

A motorcyclist was seen shooting a shotgun at passing cars at the intersection, and at least one other person was wounded.

Physical Plant job will be offered to John Dempsey

By CHRIS SEPER
Administration editor

John Dempsey, Eastern's first choice for Physical Plant director, will be on campus Thursday and Friday before making his final decision on the position.

Dempsey, current director of facilities and management and officer in charge of construction at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., arrives late Thursday afternoon for one last tour of the campus.

A decision for the director's position was made early last week, but the name was not released. Vice President for Business Affairs Charles Colbert said he preferred not to release the name, saying it may negatively affect other candidates' decisions if Dempsey decided not to take the job.

Colbert said he expected Dempsey to make a decision by the end of this week.

Dempsey said in an earlier interview

he first became interested in Eastern because of its low crime rate, proving that "the students seem to have a better background."

In the Navy since he was 17, Dempsey graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1968 with a bachelor's degree in naval science. He gained his M.C.E. in 1972 from the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

"The job at Eastern will offer less pay, but what you do is a lot more important than what you make — I guarantee it's the truth," Dempsey said.

The three other candidate finalists up for Physical Plant director were Martin Ignazito, chief mechanical engineer at the University of Illinois in Champaign; Robert Washburn, associate director of the Physical Plant at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, Ark.; and Heinz Butt, Physical Plant director at Arizona Western College in Yuma, Ariz.

Hill: Academic positions won't be cut

By CHRIS SEPER
Administration editor

No evaluation like the type used in the bumping and reorganization process of Eastern's civil service is planned for academic faculty in the near future, said Barbara Hill, acting vice president for academic affairs.

"We have not been looking at any type of position eliminations in the academic area," Hill said. "As we've gone through our reallocation process this past spring we have not really looked at personnel elimination as far as faculty were concerned."

Questions were raised about faculty evaluation and elimination after it was revealed Thursday that civil service positions were being eliminated to cut the budget. An evaluation of positions was made before position bumping, eliminating employees that held less seniority.

Currently, two positions have been eliminated as a result of civil service evaluations with another four possibly on the way.

Any teacher elimination would have to remain under the specifications of the Police still have no suspects in hit-and-run accident

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
City editor

Charleston police continue to investigate a fatal hit-and-run accident that killed a 24-year-old Charleston woman last month, but their leads have yet to produce a suspect.

Lt. Ken Belleau said Wednesday that the department's investigation was continuing as usual but has not involved any suspects or arrests.

"We're continuing to check it out," he said. "We haven't discounted anything yet."

Crystal June Melton died March 13 at Carle Foundation Hospital in Urbana after being hit the previous evening by a red four-door Buick LeSabre while riding her bicycle in the 1200 block of Harrison Avenue.

Police say the car left the scene immediately. A neighbor hearing the crash called for an ambulance when she saw Melton. The car was reported stolen from Charleston's downtown district about 30 minutes before the accident. Police recovered the car in a driveway about three-tenths of a mile from the scene.

Belleau said earlier this month that investigators are looking into the possibility there were passengers in the car when the accident occurred. He added Wednesday that those passengers and the driver may not be permanent residents of Charleston.

However, Belleau said that thought alone does not narrow the inquiry.

"It (the investigation) is somewhat all-inclusive," he said. "Hopefully, one (suspicion) will lead to another."

Since the incident, Belleau added police have conducted more than 50 interviews as part of their investigation and perhaps as many as 70 or 80 although he didn't have an exact count.

Testifying in Urbana last month, Belleau told jurors the street was clearly lit by street lamps and that the legal speed limit there was 30 mph. He said there were skid marks found at the scene of the accident but there was no evidence the driver tried to avoid Melton.

Police requested the help of the state Bureau of Crime Scene Services in finding and analyzing evidence. A cassette tape and pack of cigarettes were among the items investigators found in the car earlier this month.

In the weeks since the accident, a reward fund has been established at Boatmen's National Bank of Charleston, 418 Sixth St. Its contents are reserved for anyone offering information that leads to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons involved in the accident.

Gordon Hurst, administrator of the fund, said it contained $2,248 near the close of business Wednesday. Charleston police ask anyone with information to call them at 345-2144.

City council passes reduced annual budget

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
City editor

The Charleston City Council approved Wednesday an amended version of the city's $10.3 million 1992-93 municipal budget, modified to reflect the governor's cut-backs to local governments.

Commissioners unanimously passed the budget with six cut-back provisions including several equipment purchases and overtime reduction for fire and ambulance workers. The city will likely borrow money to purchase a new $190,000 fire truck and may decide not to hire several new police officers.

In addition to the revised budget package, council members passed a resolution dissolving an agreement with Coles Together. The four-year contract, approved in October 1989, called for the city to donate $50,000 annually to the group.

Coles Together encourages local economic growth through incentives and tax abatements for businesses located within its enterprise zone.

Commissioner Roger Rives said he would like to see funding restored to Coles Together if it becomes available. He supports its work, he said, and he wants its funding to continue "to the highest level possible."

Other commissioners agreed and left open the possibility of authorizing a new agreement with Coles Together if additional revenue is available or the proposed cuts fail in state legislature. City Attorney Brian Bower explained that to end the city's obligation in the contract, it must be fully terminated.

"It (the contract termination) is something we have to do, but we don't want to," Mayor Wayne Lanman said.

Council members held limited discussion regarding the cuts, saying the decisions of what to cut were difficult but necessary. Gov. Jim Edgar's budget requests call for $237 million in fiscal trim-

"Our commissioners and staff have worked very hard on (reducing) this budget," Lanman said. "This is something nobody likes to do. Lots of times it does hurt service for the people."

At its last regular meeting the council approved a city-wide hiring freeze to save more from the general fund. No city employees will be hired or replaced unless the job in question is necessary to protect the health and safety of Charleston residents.

The council's cuts come in anticipation of state cutbacks that would take Charleston's local share of Illinois' income tax surcharge. That surcharge, made permanent only last summer, provided about $450,000 - or about 9 percent of the general fund - to Charleston coffers.

Revenue from the surcharge was to be split equally between education and local government. Most of it had been spent on city employee salaries, street and water repairs and equipment purchases.

Fiery protest

At Parker Center, the downtown police headquarters, demonstrators demanding Gates' resignation threw rocks and uprooted plants, breaking some glass doors and windows.

About 50 of the crowd of 200 menaced two police officers who were trapped outside the building, but no one appeared to be injured.

Police in riot gear later moved in and some officers were hit with what appeared to be rocks. Officers wrestled a demonstrator to the ground and formed a protective wall against the demonstrators.

faculty contract, Hill said.

"We have to follow that contract very explicitly," she said. "We've been able to generate dollars without eliminating faculty positions at this point and time."

Some administrative positions that are currently vacant will remain vacant, according to a statement from university relations. A statement on the entire reallocation process for fiscal year 1993 will be distributed to the university community by the president in Friday's university newsletter, the release said.

Any internal reallocation involving faculty will be planned under the new president of the university, said President Stan Rives.

Any moves for reallocation were purposefully left out of his plans in the next fiscal year, he said.

The new president should be in place during the 1993 fall semester.

Senate elects Neumann as speaker

By SUSAN KIEL
Student government editor

Luke Neumann was voted Speaker of the Senate for the fall 1992 term by the Student Senate Wednesday night after three attempts at senate to achieve a majority vote.

"I'm happy and excited to be elected and I'm looking forward to next semester," Neumann said. "I am looking forward to representing the students at a grass root level and to represent the students in every way."

"I think you can expect fairness and you can expect professionalism from me as speaker," Neumann told the organization.

In other business, the senate passed a bylaw change that made it possible for Student Senate executive officers who receive scholarships from sources other than Student Government to be reimbursed for the work they do for Student Government.

The bylaw change states that students receiving compensation should work five hours per week or a maximum of 48 hours each month and receive $4.25 an hour.

When a bylaw is presented to senate, the usual practice is to hold the change until the next meeting where the senate will vote to accept the proposal.

Senate voted Wednesday to not hold the proposal and to vote on the change at that meeting.

"The money is there in the account," Student Body President Martha Price said. "It's the same money, it's just a different way of putting it out."

The money that will be used to pay the executive officers on an hourly basis is currently set aside in the senate budget under student payroll. Senate executives receiving hourly wages up to 48 hours per month, will not receive a tuition waiver. Executive tuition waivers or Student Awards are paid through the Student Government budget out of the line item listed as student payroll.

"If you receive a tuition waiver from another source, (other than Student Government) you have to choose between the outside source and the Student Government waiver," said Tony Wielt, newly elected Board of Governors representative. "It's a loop hole and this (change) is a way to fix it. This is not costing us any more money."

"I think the people who have these (executive) positions deserve the money even if they do have another scholarship," said Amy Jobin, newly elected executive vice president.

A resolution encouraging the College of Education Curriculum Committee and the College of Teacher Education Committee to take student concerns into consideration regarding a proposed $40 lab fee for six different courses required of education majors was also passed by senate.

"This seems like a lot of money," said Jobin, who was one of the senate members who wrote the resolution. "There are no other classes that have a lab fee higher than $10. It seems like there should be some other place where they could get the money."

WEIU stops transmitting temporarily

By DEBBIE CARLSON
Staff writer

Video might have killed the radio star, but a broken tuning capacitor killed part of WEIU-FM's programming Tuesday.

From about 3:30 p.m. to midnight WEIU-FM, 88.9, lost its transmitting power, said Joe Heumann, station manager for WEIU-FM. Since then the station has operated on low power.

At first the station engineers believed it was a transmitting tube which caused the problems. John Stafford, a broadcast engineer at WEIU-FM, said the tube was replaced, and the true problem turned out to be in the tuning capacitor.

Stafford said the tuning capacitor allows the tune transmitter output to the antenna feedline. The signal is then broadcasted.

To have the station running at full power a new tuning capacitor is needed. Currently the station is transmitting up to a 10-mile radius, compared to the 40-mile radius of which WEIU-FM is capable.

Ron Amyx, chief broadcast engineer, said the station will place a purchase order Thursday for the new piece, but they are unsure when it will arrive.

"It depends on the purchase order because the price is over the $500 departmental limit," Amyx said. "Hopefully by Friday we'll be back to full power."

Game show comedians full of laughs

By STEVE LYSAKER
Activities editor

After a 20-minute stand-up routine by three individual comedians, five students received chance to make $25 as part of the "We Can Make You Laugh" game show.

The University Board-sponsored game show featured the comedians Purvis Powell, Franko and Rex Boyd who each performed a stand-up comedy routine before trying to make the student contestants laugh.

When asking the members of the approximately 65-person audience to make noise for their respective classes, Powell said, "Seniors usually make the most noise - but they're the ones in the unemployment line."

Franko addressed drug use in his opening act. "I used to experiment with marijuana, but I wanted to do something different with my life - remember it," he said.

"I also had to change my drinking habits," he added. "In the past I got so wasted I'd pull cops over."

Boyd's stand-up routine consisted of a comedic dance routine and juggling.

"There are thousands of juggling tricks you can do with clubs if you're really good," Boyd said. "Which is why I won't be doing any."

Boyd also juggled a sickle, a hammer and a machete.

After the opening acts, the three comedians set the rules for the game show portion of "We Can Make You Laugh." The contestants were not allowed to smile, giggle or laugh and had to maintain eye contact with the comedian and respond to any questions the comedian asked. Each of the three comedians had two minutes to make the contestants laugh.

When the first contestant, Mecca Evans, was asked by Franko if she could make it for three rounds, Evans replied "of course."

Although she advanced past the first round, Evans was eliminated in the second round and received a "We Can Make You Laugh" T-shirt.

Roshanda Gilmore, the second contestant, sat straight-faced through three rounds and won $25 and a T-shirt.

"I'll put it in the bank so my checks won't bounce," said Gilmore when asked what she would do with the money.

Corrections

An article in Wednesday's Daily Eastern News should have said that Dr. Ted Sanders, who is receiving an honorary Doctorate of Public Service during afternoon commencement ceremonies on May 9, is currently superintendent of public instruction for The Ohio State Department of Education. The News erroneously published that he serves as a superintendent at Ohio State University.

The News regrets the error.

The News recaps year, bids farewell

This has definitely been an eventful academic year with a variety of activities that could have very well been the making or the breaking of this university.

The News would like to recap a few of this year's events and hopefully reflect the variety of issues that have made this school year what it has been.

Congratulations goes out to Eastern's basketball team for making their very first NCAA tournament appearance.

Editorial Eastern and four other BOG schools avoided a possible strike by the faculty who were striving for higher pay and more benefits.

Then, there is the House Bill 1721, better known as the BOG kill bill sponsored by Rep. Mike Weaver, R-Ashmore.

The suspension of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. after allegations of hazing practices.

A campus-wide fear occurred after the death of a Thomas Hall resident, Peter D. Giese, who was infected with the meningitis illness.

The campus fell into a meningitis awareness outbreak. University Health Service distributed to 3,500 students and faculty members rifampin pills.

But of all the events, the announcement of Stan Rives retirement was the biggest news-maker of all. The 1991-92 school year has definitely been an eventful year.

All in all, the year has been prosperous and many productive decisions have been made.

In the new school year, Eastern will see many changes and hopefully will overcome them as well as they did this year.

The News bids farewell to the 1991-92 academic school year and wishes all of the student body a healthy and prosperous summer vacation.

President Rives says goodbye to Eastern

It has been an honor and privilege to serve as the sixth President of Eastern Illinois University. Sandy and I shall miss the daily interaction with the students, faculty, and staff of Eastern — an institution we have come to know and love in the past twelve years.

After 38 exciting years, we are retiring from higher education, but not from active support of Eastern. We will continue to live in Charleston and do what we can to help make this fine university still better. Among our thoughts for the immediate future of Eastern are these:

•Bigger is not necessarily better. The relative size of EIU as the smallest Illinois public residential university is an important strength of the institution in attracting and educating students. We should retain sources of great strength — small classes taught by regular faculty and a lovely campus of human scale that allows meaningful interaction between student and faculty. Though it is painful to limit enrollment, Eastern should never compromise quality by admitting more students than it has the financial, human, and physical resources to provide with a quality education.

•Private support is increasingly important. With less than 40 percent of our total operating budget now coming from Illinois tax dollars, Eastern is progressively more a state-assisted than state-supported institution. At a time of limited state resources — and that appears the foreseeable future — the University Foundation will be an even more important source of maintaining quality education at EIU. We should be proud of the fact that our foundation assets and endowments are now third largest among Illinois public universities. Proud but not content without significant future growth because the university foundation must provide the margin of excellence at a time of diminishing state support.

•Diversity is critical. The efforts in place to increase the cultural diversity of the campus must continue. America was created as a culturally diverse society and that is an important source of national strength. The objective must always be clear, that the ethnic diversity of our students and staff at least match that of the population of Illinois. The education of students is shortchanged in anything less than that environment. We have begun, but we are not yet there.

•Self-determination is vital. At a time when the BGU is becoming a triumph of marketing over substance, we must find ways to maximize internal self-governance assuring that the University determines its education program and to minimize administrative bureaucracy and control in governing board staff. While it is important that governing boards establish policy it is equally important that individuals institutions retain autonomy to operate the university in accord with established policy. I have done what I could to maintain institutional autonomy because that is the real strength of American higher education and I now leave the task to you.

•Civility is essential. A conflict of ideas will always characterize a vital, involved academic community. But attacks on the integrity of individuals is unworthy of a caring community of scholars.

All of you and the seventh President of Eastern have all our best wishes as the University approaches its second century of distinguished service to the people of Illinois. Please continue to do what you can to assure that Eastern Illinois University remains always a place where students can get a good education at reasonable cost.

Stan Rives is the president of Eastern Illinois University and a guest columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Dear editor:

More "trash" will be dumped these next few days than at any other time as the students move out of residence halls and rentals. Everything from mugs to rugs will be cast off, because they don't fit in the car.

But wait! There is an option that saves landfills, created good will among people, and gives you a good feeling: Give your useable items to Newman Catholic Center's Haiti Connection. Newman's Haiti connection are collecting useable items to be either taken down or re-sold at a fall yard sale with 100 percent of the proceeds going to Newman sponsored projects in Haiti, or to be given to people in need in the Charleston area.

How about it! It doesn't take much. Either drop it off at the Newman Center or give us a call and we will pick it up. Remember our motto: if it doesn't fit in your car, it will in ours.

Math energy makes quip with The News

Dear editor:

Last week on April 21, Math Energy, a club for Elementary Education majors, had Carol McGehe speak at their meeting. As Illinois' top mathematics teacher, Carol received the 1991 Presidential Award for Excellence in Teaching of Mathematics.

One week before our next meeting, we had our publicity chairperson, Blake Bartimus, take some information over to The Daily Eastern News hoping that they would run an article or come and write a story about the meeting. The News said that they would run a story on Monday or Tuesday. That sounded great!

Monday came, no article! Tuesday came, no article! I realize that Math Energy is not well known because we started our club just last Spring, but we do have 60 members.

Since we did have such an outstanding speaker, somebody from The News could have given us the courtesy to run the article. We are sorry that The News was unable to print our article because we wanted to provide the opportunity for other people outside our club to hear this successful teacher.

I just have one question, why is it that every little minor thing gets covered in The News, and we couldn't even get a measly little paragraph? It's not like we were asking for the front page!

Soloists make Eastern's orchestra 'special'

By STEVE LYSAKER
Activities editor

The annual concerto concert featuring the Eastern Illinois University/Community Orchestra and four select soloists will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Dvorak Concert Hall.

Donald Tracy, director of the Eastern Illinois University/Community Orchestra, said the concert has been an annual event for more than 24 years and features soloists selected from a competition earlier in the school year.

"The soloists are winners of a competition held in early November," Tracy said.

The competition consisted of soloists performing their area of specialty in an outside concert. Three judges then selected who they felt to be the best soloists, Tracy said. The four winning soloists are Lori Dombrowski, Barbara Graves, Diane Helfers and Rebecca Velleuer.

Dombrowski, a pianist, will perform the first movement of the Kachaturian Piano Concerto; Graves, a soprano, will sing Lo Dice Ognun from "La Fille Du Regiment" by Donizetti and Caro Nome from Verdi's "Rigoletto;" Velleuer will perform the second movement from the B flat Concerto for Piano by Brahms; and Helfers will perform the first movement of the Ravel Piano Concerto in G Major.

The concert will conclude with the Eastern Illinois University/Community Orchestra performing the Four Sea Interludes from "Peter Grimes" by Benjamin Britten.

Tracy said the fact "that we have student soloists is something special."

"The fact that (the students) have been selected to play with the orchestra is very special," he added.

The concert is open to the public, free of charge and will be followed by a reception in honor of the soloists.

Music stars headline annual Mother's Day concert May 10

By STEVE LYSAKER
Activities editor

An international opera performer and a star of a variety of Broadway musicals will be featured in the Mother's Day concert "The Magic of Music" which is to be held at 3 p.m. on May 10.

Leyla Waddell, publicity chair of the Charleston's Women's Club, said international opera singer Eva Pearl Yeadon and Broadway musical star Marith Willis will be featured in the concert.

The concert, which will be sponsored by the Charleston's Women's Club, will alternate scenes and songs from operas to musicals.

Waddell said she first heard Yeadon and Willis at a banquet about five years ago.

"They each have a beautiful voice in their own area," Waddell said.

She added that a similar performance was given by Yeadon and Willis to a "full house" in the Dvorak Concert Hall three years ago.

Proceeds from the $4 admission for students and senior citizens and the $5 admission for the general public will benefit Eastern music scholarships, Waddell said.

According to Waddell, Yeadon has more than 30 leading operatic roles to her credit and has performed in such places as Germany and Switzerland.

She is also planning a tour of the Fiji Islands and the Far East, Waddell said.

First food drive spells success

By CASSIE SIMPSON

The Dean Student Advisory Council for Applied Science's first food drive was a success, according to Chris Marin, spokes-man for the council.

"It went well," Marin said. "As far as the can food part, it didn't go as well as we planned, but the drop cans for change went well."

Drop boxes were placed in several businesses in Charleston to collect food, and drop cans were placed in 21 Charleston businesses for people to place their loose change in, Marin said.

"The food drive lasted a week and a half and we collected $100 the first week, and people were generous over Easter weekend because we collected $100 then," Marin said.

A total of $200 and about 40 to 50 pounds of canned food were collected and donated by the council to Carolyn Smith, director of the Charleston Food Pantry. The pantry will use the money to purchase food for 14 cents a pound from the National Food Pantry in Champaign.

"The $200 will buy over 1,500 pounds of food from Champaign," Marin said.

Charleston's Food Pantry serves more than 140 families from all over the county, Marin said.

"We plan to do it again next year," Marin said. "We're going to try to make it an annual thing."

Fellowship award given

By CASSIE SIMPSON
Campus editor

Eastern student Michelle Koehler, a junior accounting major from Prophetstown, is one recipient of the 40 Exceptional Student Fellowship awards from State Farm Companies Foundation.

"There are 40 awards and over 800 students applied," said Lynne Tammeus, spokesperson for the State Farm Companies Foundation.

The fellowship award is a one-year stipend for $3,000.

Winners are chosen on the basis of their scholastic performance, business leadership potential, extracurricular and volunteer activities, and recommendations from the college dean and other faculty.

Tammeus said applicants must be full-time college juniors or seniors in business-related majors.

"They don't have to be affiliated with State Farm in any way," Tammeus said. "Applications can be picked up at the Lumpkin College of Business or through the State Farm Companies Foundation."

Koehler is working towards her Bachelor's of Science in Business. She has maintained a 4.0 grade point average and made the Dean's List every semester.

Her accomplishments include winning the Livingston C. Lord Scholarship, the highest award at Eastern; Honors Programs Continuing Scholarships; Student Accounting Society Junior Award and Delta Mu Delta Business Honors Society.

Applications for the 1993 award will be available on Nov. 1.

Power team muscles through Charleston

By SUSAN KIEL
Student government editor

A seven-man team known as the Power Team arrived in Charleston on Wednesday and will perform various feats of strength nightly at 7 p.m. Thursday through Sunday at Lantz Gym.

The four-day, non-profit event is being sponsored by local churches, businesses and organizations.

There is no entrance cost for the performances at Lantz; however, the team is asking for a $2 donation from spectators.

The Power Team's show features team members crushing walls of ice with their foreheads, bursting hot water bottles with lung power, breaking out of handcuffs and bending steel bars with their teeth.

The team will also perform throughout the week at local elementary and high school assemblies promoting an anti-drug message.

A press release said the team stresses the dangers of using and abusing drugs and alcohol, the seriousness of teenage pregnancy and suicide "not being the ultimate high, but the ultimate lie."

The Power Team is also featured on a 30-minute weekly television program, "The Power Connection," which is hosted by the team's founder and leader John Jacobs.

The Power Team combines athletic feats with Christian messages about the dangers of using and abusing drugs and alcohol, teenage pregnancy and suicide. They will perform in Lantz Gymnasium through Sunday.

New fraternity joins campus

BRENT GOERS
Staff writer

Kappa Delta Rho was chartered Friday to become East's newest fraternity. Fraternity President Nick Bart said the group already has 62 members and is expecting a large fall rush. "We had the largest spring rush of any house and we are looking forward to a large turn-out this fall," Bart said. Bart said he was excited about getting more involved with Greek Week next year even though the group played only a minor part in the event because of their short-lived existence.

The fraternity is especially looking forward to Homecoming and has already begun planning for the fall by joining with Alpha Sigma Alpha on the effort, Bart said.

Kappa Delta Rho applied April 12, 1991 for university recognition and was officially chartered April 24, 1992.

Officers for the newly-chartered fraternity along with Bart include Vice President Brian Brakenhoff, Second Vice President Glenn Hughes, Treasurer Vito D'Astici and Secretary Doug Reznick.

Bart said the fraternity has recently purchased a house next to Ike's Bar where the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority previously resided. The house is being remodeled now and will become Kappa Delta Rho's headquarters as soon as possible, he added.

Final poetry reading will be Tuesday

The Charleston Area Arts Council will present eighth and final Dudley House poetry reading this school year at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday.

Nan Hennings, director of literature for the council, said next Tuesday's reading will be the final reading until September.

She added that although there will be no featured guest readers at the upcoming reading, there will be a theme of spring.

Hennings said past poetry readings have drawn an average audience of about 30 people, including students, professors and members of the community.

She added that the Dudley House poetry readings serve as a "good forum" for people to openly read selected or original poetry.

"(The readings) are an excellent opportunity for people to take the podium and read some favorite selections or their own work," Hennings said.

Although next Tuesday's reading will focus on the season of spring, a wide variety of poetic styles will be presented, she said.

"All sorts of poetry is presented - I really like the fearlessness of the readings," Hennings said.

The Dudley House is located at 895 Seventh St., and the reading is open to the public.

Eastern set for Mid-Con meet

BRIAN HARRIS
Staff writer

The Mid-Continent Conference track and field meet is this weekend, and it just might turn out to be a blowout with Eastern coming out on top.

Head coach Neil Moore has named seven outdoor Mid-Con athletes with his Panther thin-clad squads over the last 10 years, and this year he's looking for an eighth to add to his collection.

The Panther tracksters already on the indoor conference meet in April over rival Western Illinois and will most likely have a stronger showing outdoors.

Events such as the decathlon, 400-meter hurdles, hammer and discus throws and the 3,000-meter steeplechase give the team added strength. This is due to the fact that most of the team's top performers specialize in these events outdoors, and also compete in other events as well.

"This is one of the best teams we've ever had," said Moore. "I expect them to do a good job."

The Panthers will be fielding four national qualifiers and 26 members of the school's best against Eastern, Cleveland State,

Neil Moore

Youngstown State, Akron, Wright State and Illinois-Chicago.

The first event of the meet will feature All-American Darrin Steele in the decathlon which will take place on Thursday and Friday.

Steele, who placed fifth in the NCAA decathlon a year ago, still hasn't hit the automatic qualifying mark in the event this year, but will be looking to exceed the 7,700 points total needed for him to make a second guaranteed trip to nationals. He will be joined in the decathlon by teammates Eric Heinz and Joe Gianneschi.

Eastern will be strongest in the field events with All-American Braidy Miller, his brother Brent, Rob Schultz and Mike Ford in the throws. Also 1991 indoor long jump national qualifier Nevin Govan will be competing in the jumps. He won the long, triple and high jump at the indoor conference meet.

On the track Eastern will be following the lead of hurdlers Dan Steele and Jim Sledge, both of whom have just barely missed national qualification in the 110-meter high hurdles. They are both members of the Panther 4x400 relay, and will compete in the open sprints.

In the distance events Eastern has formidable entrants in Eric Baron, Kenric Bond and Eric Graham. Baron, the indoor 3,000-meter champion indoors and runner up in cross country has recorded some of the fastest 1,500-meter and 5,000-meter run times in the conference this year.

Eastern's Coli Turley watches the ball come into her glove during the Panthers 3-1 victory over Southern Illinois. Eastern will host two doubleheaders over the weekend against Wichita State and Southwest Missouri State.

Big weekend for Panthers

By RYAN GIUSTI
Staff writer

The Eastern softball team will play four conference games against the top two teams in the Gateway Friday and Saturday at Lantz Field in a weekend that could decide where the Panthers finish in league play.

Second place Southwest Missouri State will come to Lantz Field on Friday for a 3 p.m. doubleheader, and first place Wichita State will be in town Saturday for a twin bill starting at noon.

Coach Beth Perine said this may be the biggest weekend of the year for her team.

"These are probably the four most important games of our season," Perine said.

Perine said she hopes to use the weekend as a confidence builder for the Gateway Conference Tournament in Des Moines, Iowa, which starts next Thursday. The winner of the tournament receives an automatic bid to the National Tournament.

Eastern gained a little momentum Tuesday when it earned a split with last year's conference champion, Southern Illinois.

"We've got to go into the conference tournament with a lot of confidence," Perine said. "I think a win against Southern, a defending conference champion, is a confidence booster."

Southwest Missouri State is in second place in the Gateway with a 10-4 conference record. The Panthers beat Southwest 3-1 in a non-conference game for their first win of the year in mid-March.

"We beat Southwest in Louisiana over break, but they're one of the those teams that can come back," Perine said. "They have very good hitters and they never let up. What we're going to try to do is offset their hitters as much as possible."

Wichita State is in first with an 11-3 conference mark despite a 23-26 overall mark. The Lady Shockers are hitting .282 as a team led by Kristen Klumpp and Lorie Broehl. Klumpp is hitting .354, good for 9th in the Gateway, and Broehl is right behind in 10th with a .350 average. Freshman pitcher Laura Staats has seen the most action on the mound this year, throwing 112 2/3 innings. She has racked up 18 complete games.

Eastern goes into the contest with a 5-5 conference mark and a 15-16 overall record. The Panthers' loss to Southern Illinois in game two, ended an eight-game winning streak.

Baseball team looks to get back on track

After losing three out four Mid-Con battles last weekend in Ohio, the Panther baseball team is looking to redeem itself as it travels to Northern Illinois for back-to-back doubleheaders Thursday and Friday.

Eastern (18-26 overall and 9-5 in the conference) lost a pair of games to Wright State and split with Akron last weekend. Northern Illinois (15-29 overall and 5-9 in the conference) has also lost three of their last four games.

Callahan said this is an important weekend as far as the conference is concerned.

"It's obviously a swing weekend for us," Callahan said. "We are first in the conference, but they are in our division. If we go up there and don't do well, then it completely changes the complexion of the conference standings."

Steve Lemke and Mike Kundra are expected to get the nod for the first twin bill. Lemke (4-7 record, 3.92 ERA) did not get a decision in the Panthers 7-6 victory over Akron. Kundra (4-5 record, 7.35 ERA) lost to Akron in his last appearance.

The Panthers final regular season game is May 10 as it hosts Western Illinois. The Mid-Continent Conference Tournament is slated for May 15-18 at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

The teams 7-6 win over Akron marked a milestone in Callahan's coaching campaign as he picked up career win No. 100.

Rhodes remains part of women's tennis team

By MATT MAHARG

Kim Rhodes is an assistant coach for the women's tennis team and was a player at Eastern for four years under coach Grant Alexander.

But those four years were rather bumpy and filled with injuries that kept Rhodes from playing frequently each year.

"My freshman year I played at No. 1 singles in the fall," Rhodes said. "But I had an injury that kept me from playing all the time."

After she played at No. 3 in the spring semester of her freshman year, Rhodes needed knee surgery after her first match her sophomore year and was finished for the season.

As Rhodes rehabilitated her knee for the rest of her second season, she looked forward to playing again, but the pain never did completely go away during her junior and senior seasons.

"It's been an injury-plagued career for me, but I can say I really enjoyed it and had a great coach," Rhodes said.

An accomplishment for Rhodes was being nominated All-Conference Player of the Year at the No. 4 position her senior year. This nomination was done by every coach in the conference.

"I think by my senior year I had learned to play a lot smarter and won a lot of matches I wouldn't have my freshman year," Rhodes said.

One match that Rhodes remembers the best was in 1990 when Eastern hosted the conference tournament. Rhodes and her partner Missy Holste were apparently heavy underdogs against a Southern Illinois team, but still came up with the victory.

Sports writers give out dubious year-end awards

This is it. The final regular edition of The Daily Eastern News until August. The 1991-92 school year has been full of exciting sports action that we have helped bring to you in these pages. From the struggles of the Eastern football team to the surprise NCAA appearance by the men's basketball team, we've pretty much witnessed it all.

So we will reflect on the sports year past by giving out year-end awards to members of Eastern's athletic programs and reflect back on the good and bad times we've witnessed over the past nine months.

Best moment of the year award: Without a doubt the weekend of March 8-10 will be remembered in the annals of Eastern basketball history.

With the best stretch of basketball the Panthers put together this year, they knocked off three higher-seeded teams in the Mid-Continent Conference Post-season Tournament to grab Eastern's first-ever NCAA tournament bid. Being one of 25 or so people from Eastern to watch the three-day spectacle is something that we'll never forget and look back on with fond memories.

Worst moment of the year award: Take the final two minutes of any of Eastern football Panthers' six losses by a combined total of seven points, and you have a winner.

In each of those games, those final two minutes proved to be critical. No matter if it was a costly penalty, a missed field goal or extra point on the Panthers' part, or a field goal conversion on the opposition's part, the only luck the Panthers had was bad.

Most underrated team award: Coach Neil Moore's men's track squad. Year after year, Moore leads his Panthers to the top of the Mid-Continent Conference without much recognition. And his top athletes are as good, if not better, than any others at Eastern.

Most overrated team award: Although we hate to say it, besides their three-game stretch at the Mid-Con tournament, the basketball Panthers underachieved during their regular season campaign. Take away the hype and excitement from their Cleveland weekend and their NCAA tournament experience and you have a 14-13 record, something to be ashamed of with four seniors on the squad.

Nosedive of the year award: Coach Barb Hilke's women's basketball team. Besides finishing under .500 for the first time in her 13-year Eastern career, five players recently quit the team, four of which were the team's leading scorers. Not exactly the right direction to be headed in.

Injury of the year award: Rod McKinnis. The senior forward was a dominating force on the boards for the basketball team, and after the Panthers jumped out to a 5-0 start, they lost 10 out of their next 14 after Rodman went down with his career-ending knee injury. Besides missing his rebounding, the Panthers missed McKinnis' presence on the court as a leader and a fifth senior.

Brightest future award: Jeff Thorne. The signal caller for Bob Spoo's football team led the Gateway Conference and finished fifth in the nation in pass efficiency rating last fall - as a sophomore. And he's only going to get better.

Most valuable player award: Braid Miller. The senior weight man broke his own school record in the hammer throw seven times - IN ONE DAY. (By the way, later in the same meet, he set a school record in the discus). As the leading point scorer for the school's most successful team, Miller far and away deserves the award.

The "wait until next year," award: This one goes out to each and every one of the Eastern athletic teams. The 1991-92 school year won't be looked back on as one of the best in school history. Yeah, the men's basketball team made it to the NCAA tourney, but even they had a mediocre season.

They were one of the few teams that sported a record over .500. Almost every other Eastern team, with the exception of Ralph McCausland's wrestling squad, were at .500 or below. So maybe the Panther fortunes will change come the 1992-93 academic season.
